Kevin M. Cushing concentrates his practice in real estate transactions and general civil litigation. He has been a principal at Carmody MacDonald since 1989.

Kevin began his practice as a trial lawyer in 1979. While continuing in that field, he developed a concentration in commercial and retail real estate transactions. With more than 20 years of work in this area, he has routinely handled transactions involving many millions of dollars. One of his more significant projects involved assisting a client in acquiring the land, developing and leasing a retail center exceeding one million square feet. Through years of both structuring real estate transactions and litigating transactions gone amiss, Kevin brings a unique, practical perspective to transactions that focuses on what works, avoids what does not, and manages the risks of the unknown.

Kevin is admitted to practice in Missouri and is an active member of the Metropolitan St. Louis and Missouri Bar associations and the Lawyers Association of St. Louis.
